02

Is it Important to Obtain a Language Certificate?

Being able to certify the level of a language is essential nowadays, since accreditation is required in many employment processes, scholarships, academic positions, job vacancies or competitive examinations. For this reason, this group conversation program has been designed with the aim of passing the oral test of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR), a highly prestigious language recognition system. In this way, the student will not only improve their German, but will also have the opportunity to certify it.

Having a language certificate is essential nowadays. Don't miss this opportunity to improve your German for subsequent accreditation according to the CEFR"

TECH Technological University

The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages is the only officially recognized and accredited system for assessing a student's level of proficiency. Although there are other certification systems, these come from private institutions and are, therefore, not officially valid. The CEFR establishes a single criterion to determine the difficulty of the courses and awards certificates that are recognized throughout the European Union.

At TECH Technological University we offer you the only intensive program designed to prepare you in order to obtain your official certificate based 100% on the CEFR, the only official system recognized and accepted throughout Europe.

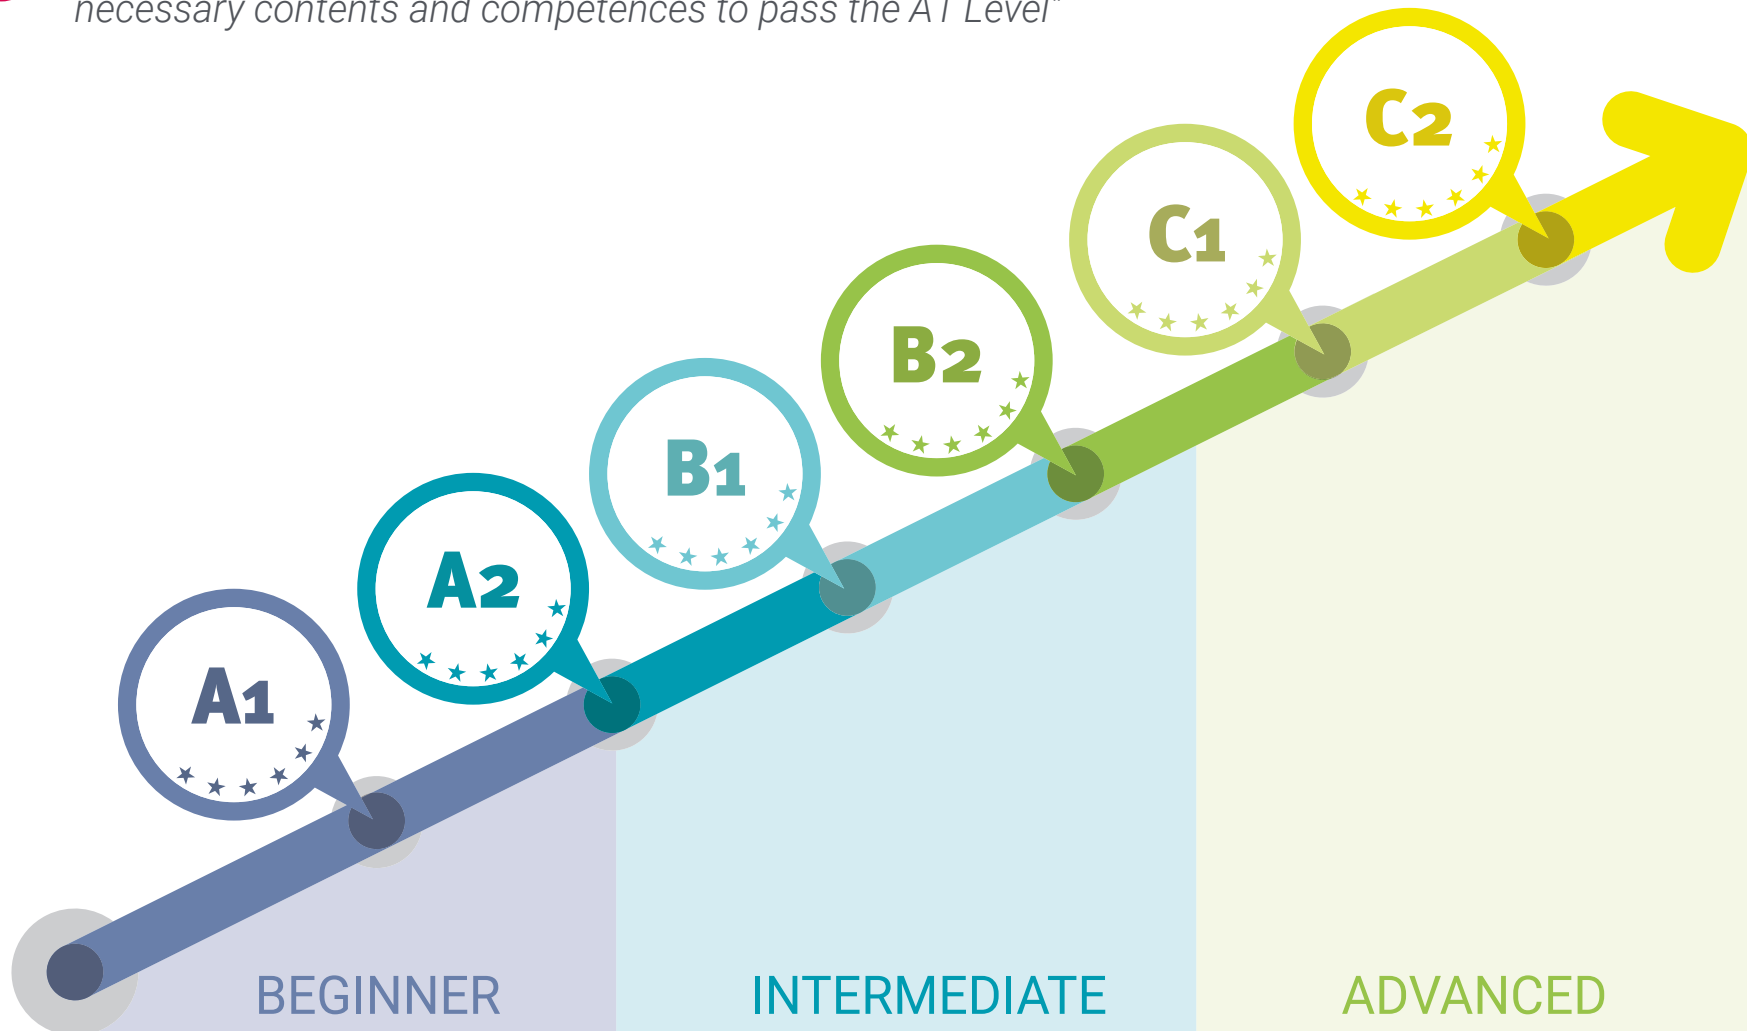

This program will help you to reinforce the basic grammatical concepts of German

Other private language certificate systems require students to periodically recertify their level of proficiency. TECH's CEFR is valid for life

With this preparation program you will have all the necessary contents and competences to pass the A1 Level"

03

What Is Level A1?

Level A1 is part of the Beginner Level, which is divided into two courses: First and Second Beginner Level (A1 and A2). The first course covers the requirements of the A1 proficiency level as established by the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, the only official system in the European Union for recognizing and accrediting language proficiency and the only certificate that has official validity and is requested by universities, companies, competitive examinations, etc.

This is the perfect program to start speaking German at a basic level. What are you waiting for?”

What Is Level A1?

At this level, as defined by the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, students progress in language skills to develop what are considered "Basic User" skills with the ability to:

01

Understand and use common everyday expressions and simple sentences to satisfy immediate needs

“

Improve your skills in this language and certify your level quickly and easily thanks to everything you will learn in this excellent program offered by TECH”

02

Interact in an elementary way as long as the interlocutor speaks slowly and clearly and is willing to cooperate

03

Introduce themselves and others, ask for and give basic personal information about their address, their belongings, and people they know

Level A1 (Access) is considered to be the lowest level of general language use, the point at which learners can interact in a simple way, can ask and answer questions about themselves, about where they live, about the people they know and the things they have, can make simple statements in areas of immediate need or on very everyday topics and can respond to such questions when they are put to them, rather than simply relying on a very limited, rehearsed and lexically organized repertoire of phrases used in specific situations.

This program, in addition to introducing you to German, prepares you specifically to pass the CEFR oral test, an internationally recognized language recognition system”

Our Methodology

The Online Conversation Classes to prepare for an A1 Level in German is an intensive preparation course based 100% on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). TECH uses a method of oral proficiency practice in which students work intensively and repeatedly on all the contents required by the CEFR, thoroughly preparing them to pass the test.

“

In no other course will you work at your own pace, with native teachers, in small groups based on specific practice of the CEFR competencies in each session”

The TECH Technological University method

Conventional methods of teaching a second language, such as demonstrative classes or mechanical exercises, slow down learning and seriously affect student motivation, as confirmed by statistical data reflecting the failure of the traditional system and methodology.

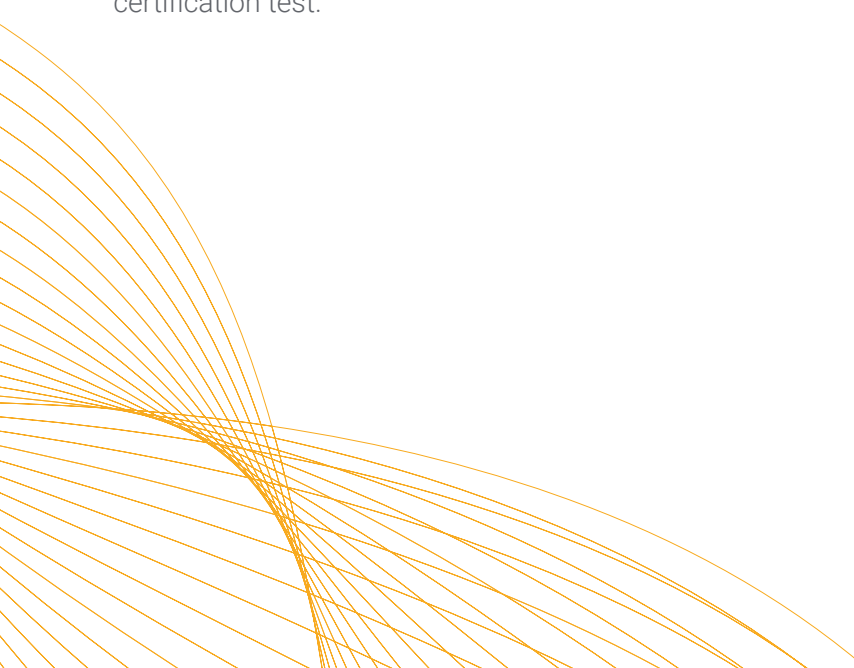

TECH's German Level A1 oral proficiency preparation program offers you a method based on interaction and synchronous and direct communication between teacher and student to comprehensively prepare for the official oral level certification test. Our objective is to strengthen your skills in a changing, real and multicultural context and guarantee your success in passing the test. To this end, we emulate the official test using mock tests throughout the course.

Through activities, stories and real contexts, the student will learn how to solve everyday and basic communication situations in simulated learning environments and will face real mock exams to prepare intensively for the level certification test.

...All of this is enhanced with the best 100% online teaching methodology: Relearning...

Our school is the first in the world to combine storytelling with a 100% online learning system based on repetition, which combines different elements that represent an evolution with respect to the simple study and performance of exercises.

TECH offers you the highest quality and quantity in the academic landscape, with hundreds of exercises and resources for you to keep improving your level step by step

This methodology, at the forefront of world teaching, is called Relearning. Our language school is the first licensed to employ this successful method, having managed in 2015 to improve the overall satisfaction levels (teaching quality, quality of materials, course structure, objectives...) of the students who complete the courses with respect to the indicators of the best language courses on the market.

The overall score obtained by our learning system is 8.01, according to the highest international standards

Relearning Methodology

We prevent your motivation from waning and provide you with the best learning environment.

TECH's intensive oral proficiency preparation program is based on synchronous communication, in real time, as this type of interaction is proven to reinforce personal participation, work interaction, social-emotional relationships and personal interactions, increasing motivation (Krasinski, 2008).

...with a personalized and expert-led study experience...

In order to promote maximum contact with the Language School, we provide you with a tutor so that you can write essays, receive answers to your questions or get advice on how to study.

Our system will allow you to organize your time and learning pace, adapting it to your schedule, and will also allow you to access the contents from any device with an internet connection (computer, tablet, smartphone)”

According to the latest scientific evidence in the field of neuroscience, not only do we know how to organize information, ideas, images, memories, but we know that the place and context where we have learned something is fundamental for us to be able to remember it and store it in the hippocampus and retain it in our long-term memory. In this way, and in what is called “Neurocognitive context-dependent learning”, the different elements of our intensive German A1 preparation course are connected to the context in which the participant will take their official certification exam in order to guarantee success on the day of the test.

Course Objectives

This university program has two main objectives: on the one hand, to make the first steps in this language comfortable and enjoyable for the student, so that they can progress quickly; on the other hand, to help the student reach CEFR German Level A1, so that they can pass the oral test of this language certification system. In this way, you will be able to prove your language level while learning German in small groups and with the best native teachers.

“

Practice the speaking skills and abilities required by the A1 CEFR: more than 100 different practice exercises”

General Objectives

01

Solve simple communicative tasks and perform basic communicative functions, both in an educational environment and in everyday situations

02

Interact and express yourself in these situations in an elementary but adequate way, in a standard register of spoken language

03

Define the most relevant social aspects of everyday life situations and recognize the most common forms of social relationships

04

Use the linguistic resources necessary to get by in basic communication situations

05

Develop resources and tools that enable them to assess and improve their own learning and use of the language

Specific Objectives

Oral Comprehension

- Understand speech that is slow, carefully articulated and with enough pauses to assimilate meaning
- Understand instructions that are explained slowly and carefully and able to follow directions if they are simple and brief

In TECH's preparation course for the official CEFR A1 level test you will find more than 100 activities focused on developing your oral skills

Oral Expression

- Participate in conversations in a simple way, taking into account that communication depends entirely on slower-paced repetitions, reformulations and rectifications
- Pose and answer simple questions and statements, respond to statements made in areas of immediate need or on very everyday topics
- Understand common expressions aimed at satisfying simple, everyday needs as long as the interlocutor collaborates by addressing them in clear and slow speech and repeats what they do not understand
- Understand questions and instructions addressed to them clearly and slowly, understanding simple and brief directions
- Introduce oneself and use basic greetings and farewell expressions. Ask how people are doing and express reactions to the news
- Understand everyday expressions aimed at satisfying simple concrete needs provided that the speaker collaborates by addressing them in clear, slow speech and repeats what they do not understand
- Understand questions and instructions if spoken slowly and carefully, and understand short, simple directions on how to get to a place
- Ask someone for something, and vice versa.
- Have a good command of numbers, quantities, prices and schedules
- Make time indications by means of sentences such as, for example, "next week, last Friday, in November, at three o'clock"
- Respond in an interview to simple and direct questions about personal data, if spoken very slowly and clearly without idioms or set phrases

Specific Objectives

Sociocultural and Sociolinguistic Competence

- Become familiar with the most relevant social aspects of everyday life situations, as well as with those related to their own field, which will result in the basic adaptation of their behavior to these situations and in the understanding or adequate use of the lexicon and functional exponents
- Recognize and use the most common forms of social relations and treatment, within a standard register. In regular social situations, recognize and use the usual forms of address used to greet, say goodbye, address someone, give thanks, apologize, ask permission, take an interest in people and respond to an offer
- Understand the behaviors and values that are different from one's own and that underlie the most evident and everyday socio-cultural aspects

Linguistic Competence

- Manage a basic repertoire of vocabulary and expressions related to the most common situations and functions foreseen in the syllabus
- Develop a very limited control of linguistic resources, with systematic errors that usually occur at this level

“

In order to consolidate all these skills you will have more than 40 sessions designed by expert teachers and based 100% on the CEFR”

Did you know?

Communicative competence is not merely limited to the knowledge and ability to use the linguistic code, but has other broader dimensions, which place it in direct relation with other competences such as information processing and digital competence, learning to learn, social and civic competence, or cultural and artistic competence.

This implies a cultural immersion that is only possible through direct and continuous interaction with native speakers and real conversational situations.

TECH offers you what you were looking for: a practical language program completely adapted to your personal, academic and professional goals

Course Structure and Content

In order to master the basic oral skills of a language, it is essential to be able to function in a multitude of situations. For this reason, the teaching team of this university program has devised group sessions in which students share their skills in different contexts. All this, in small groups where everyone intervenes a good number of times and the teacher will be correcting common mistakes and giving the necessary keys to start speaking with a certain fluency in the most common daily situations.

Where, When and How is it Taught?

This course takes place over 4 months and consists of forty 60-minute live sessions taught by native teachers.

Each session is structured as follows:

- ♦ Oral interaction skills practice
- ♦ Oral expression skills practice
- ♦ Simulation of real situations
- ♦ Tips and tricks to prepare for the test
- ♦ Summary and closing
- ♦ Download printable sheets

You will surround yourself with people who share your goals and affinities, creating a common and collaborative learning environment"

A1 Level Learning Objectives

In each program, native teachers prepare a series of assignments that the student must pass in order to satisfactorily achieve the goals of the course. The group size is small, allowing the student to intervene on multiple occasions to improve the language. Thanks to TECH's unique methodology, all the proposed objectives can be achieved in the shortest possible time, resulting in effective and efficient teaching.

- Help to learn the language from scratch, polishing common mistakes and offering methods to become more fluent in speech
- Master the use of new basic words to develop conversations in different contexts
- Assimilate grammatical rules and listening comprehension with a personalized approach to the needs of each student
- Practice listening and oral interaction skills with peers who share the same interests and language level
- Focus on everyday issues, such as individual presentations, family, work, travel or daily routine
- Enable the student to initiate and maintain a simple conversation on their own, making use of the most common language

You will focus your practice to pass the CEFR Level A1 with flying colors”

"Germany is very close to my country, so I visit very often. But I already needed to be able to communicate there. I used English and was embarrassed that I couldn't even order in a restaurant in German. These TECH classes made me improve, now I feel much more comfortable every time I travel to Germany. Since I have been able to speak German, the country has become my favorite"

Marion Duris

French tourist

"Foreign graduates are highly valued in Germany, so the country offers numerous career opportunities. There is a large shortage of healthcare workers, so new positions are continually appearing. The problem is the language. You need to be able to get by at least in a basic way. And I've managed to do it thanks to this TECH university program. Its conversation classes are very entertaining, you learn without realizing it"

The Professional Benefits of German

German is the ninth most spoken language in the world. It is spoken in countries such as: Switzerland, Austria, Luxembourg and Belgium, as well as in other parts of the world in small communities.

There is no doubt that the main reason to learn German is for work. Austria has the lowest unemployment rate of the Eurozone countries; Switzerland is one of the most affluent countries and offers excellent working conditions; the engine of Europe, Germany, offers great employment opportunities to anyone who is willing to work. However, a good level of German is a prerequisite for working in these countries. Many have tried their luck and emigrated from their home countries in search of work, but doing it without knowing German is not particularly easy.

Learning German may be just what you need to develop your career. Knowing German will also make it easier to create or maintain working relationships with German-speaking associates in your country. It will undoubtedly help to strengthen relationships and close business deals. It is also worth bearing in mind that German is the native language of one of the world's major exporting countries, and having a good command of this language allows you to perform better in business and instill greater confidence in working relationships.

Additionally, German is the second most important language for the sciences and Germany is the third most important country for its contribution to research and development. Germany awards a large number of research grants to foreign scientists and almost 20% of the world's books are written in German.

German is the native language of one of the world's major exporting countries, and having a good command of this language allows you to perform better in business”
